MATTRESS FAQs!

DOES A MATTRESS AFFECT HOW ONE SLEEPS?

Yes. An average human being ideally spends 1/3rd of his life (8 hours per day) asleep, and the mattress one uses has the potential either to encourage sleep or rob you of sleep. Whether your mattress is a sleep-friend or a sleep-foe can determine how refreshed you feel in the morning. If you're tossing and turning at night or if you wake up feeling stiff or sore in the morning, it could be a sign that your current mattress is not ideal for you.

WHAT ARE THE STANDARD SIZES AVAILABLE?

King Size: 84×72, 78×72, 75×72, 72×72
Queen Size: 78×60, 75×60 & 72×60
Twin sizes : 78×48, 75×48 & 72×48
Single sizes: 78×36, 75×36 & 72×36

There is a tolerance of ± 12mm in length and width, on standard sizes based on the amount of padding and type of construction.

HOW TO CHOOSE THE RIGHT MATTRESS?

The right mattress provides the right combination of support and comfort. Optimal support is essential for a healthy body. A good mattress will gently support your body at all points and keep your spine in the same shape as say a person with good standing posture. When trying on mattresses, pay special attention to your shoulders, hips and lower back as these are the heaviest parts of your body.

IS THERE ONE RIGHT MATTRESS?

When it comes to mattresses, there is no one-size-fits-all. After all, we're all built differently and have different comfort and support preferences, so why would the same mattress be "best" for all of us? To determine the mattress that's best for you, we recommend using the process of elimination to weed out the ones you don't like.

WHAT IS THE BEST WAY TO TRY A MATTRESS?

The best way to try a mattress is to take the "SLEEP TEST":

- Select a mattress
- Lie down in your sleep position
- Evaluate the level of comfort and support
- Educate yourself about each selection
- Partners should try each mattress together

WHAT ARE THE IMPORTANT ACCESSORIES ONE MUST PURCHASE WITH THEIR MATTRESS?

a) Don't forget to purchase a waterproof mattress protector. Try Matt-Shield, from Cenutary. It guards your mattress against dirt, spills, and normal wear and tear, and, it is extremely lightweight and provides luxurious comfort.

b) Don't forget to invest in a good pillow. Having the right pillow is not only comforting, it plays an important role in supporting the head, neck, shoulders, hips, and spine.

THE AWARDS OF

BETTER SLEEP.

Sleep has always been undervalued. And as India's Sleep Specialist, we feel the time has come for Centuary to join the pursuit to enlighten people on the awards of better sleep. It is our endeavour to not only constantly excel in our craft and provide the most restorative and restful sleep, but also to educate people about the awards that come from better sleep. Science and Research have revealed that sleep is the world's most powerful medicine. Sleep can enhance metabolism, it can improve your physical and mental performance, your overall health and even your beauty! When we sleep, enzymes, proteins and hormones come together to restore and rejuvenate our brain and body. And to help this process along, we at Centuary, have developed with our Ulti-Matt technology, a range of sleep solutions combining advanced materials and multi-layered support, to give you the power of better sleep.

People performing in various environments, whether at work, or at home — are coming to appreciate that sleep is a powerful tool to help them achieve their goals and be at the top of their game. A shift is how we view sleep is already in the offing. And when you experience Centuary's Ulti-Matt technology, you'll understand the awards that come from better sleep. Better sleep means better performance; better health; better energy; better focus; a better capacity to achieve and innovate; and most importantly, a better you. Here's a look at how:

1. Better Performance

Researchers have found that those who sleep anywhere between 8 to 10 hours a night, are likely to perform better at any task, especially physical or athletic ones. The reason for this is that while you sleep, your brain is working hard to solidify your memory and practice the skills you might have picked up during the day. This process is called consolidation.

Essentially, the learning process is divided into two stages – part of it is carried out while we're awake, and the remaining is carried out at night when we rest, but our brain continues practicing, recognising and structuring information so as to enhance our performance the next day.

2. Better Focus

Studies have consistently established that people who sleep less than eight hours every night are not able to perform well in concentration or memory tests. The explanation for this is fairly simple. There are different phases in our sleep – Deep Sleep and REM sleep – and these stages are critical to our ability to learn.

Deep sleep strengthens our knowledge and deepens our thoughts, allowing us to retain for longer any information we have gathered. REM (Rapid Eye Movement) sleep has been proved to be essential for learning processes and behaviour growth. So when we don't sleep enough for prolonged periods of time, our brain is unable to process effectively what we've learnt during the day, gradually making us less efficient and productive.

3. Better Health

A good mattress and sound sleeping habits are key to good health. Losing sleep harms the body, depletes immune defences and reduces one's ability to concentrate and remember. Think of sleep time as the brain's recharge time – our brain uses this down time to retreat and regroup strength. When we don't get the required amount of sleep, our stress hormones multiply, blood pressure is likely to go up and there have also been several studies which find a connection between less sleep and chronic illnesses.

So do yourself a favour and make it a habit to get at least 8 hours of sleep every night, starting tonight! (You'll thank us for the rest of your life!)

THE WORLD IS OUR STAGE, AND AREN'T WE PERFORMING!
